SANSCHA Takes Over As Thousands Stranded At Ferry Terminal

Thousands of tourists en route for the mainland will long remember Sidney and its hospitality. With an average of 400 cars daily passing through the port by Washington State Ferries to Anacortes, since Friday morning, the community has stood behind SANSCHA to provide meals, accommodation, organized parking facilities and entertainment. To thousands of motorists stranded by the sudden Black Ball ferry strike, Sidney will always represent hospitality and community effort at its highest level. Without hope for remuneration or reward hundreds of citizens and local organizations have come forward to relieve the burden of the passengers boarding the Washington State Ferries.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORIC COMMUNITY PROJECT HERE

Utmost co-operation was received from Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross, of Butchart Gardens. The proprietors donated food and assistance to SANSCHA from the outset. During the week-end Mrs. Ross offered to close the tea room at the gardens and have the staff help out at Sidney if the burden should be too great for the volunteers.

Visitors from all parts of Canada and the United States have been loud in the praise of the community effort. Travellers from the furthest points were Mrs. Susan Day, of London, England, and Bobby Nogast, of Hong Kong, China.

More than 100 travellers were accommodated in private homes overnight on Sunday when almost all volunteers of accommodation were called to find room for the overflow from hotels and auto courts.

Richards' Food Market, Elk Lake, donated a hamper of food to SANSCHA over the week-end to aid in the provision of refreshments to the thousands passing through the car park.

On Sunday evening volunteers leaving the Beacon Ave. park were directed out by Ken Mollet, Jr., of Deep Cove. On Monday morning the same traffic patrol stood at the park entrance. He had been on duty throughout the night.

Tourists were among the volunteers to aid with the handling of visitors. A passing R.C.A.F. man was called in to connect up the public address system which has been in use over the week-end. On Monday morning visitors from California were directing cars in the park and a lady from that state was serving behind the refreshment counter.

Weston's Bakery rallied to the call for transportation to carry visitors on a sightseeing tour. The company provided buses to run a shuttle service to Butchart Gardens. Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross donated 500 free tickets to the gardens.

Commissioner A. A. Cormack, chairman of the Sidney village council traffic committee expressed his appreciation of the work of the Sidney detachment of the R.C.M.P. in controlling the unprecedented traffic over the week-end.

"I have nothing but praise for the way in which Cpl. W. Stanton and his assistants handled the situation," he told The Review.

A tourist was enquiring at SANSCHA hall regarding the time of a ferry. She was assured by a weary Norman Wright that she had ample time to "spend all her money in Sidney". She took him up on his statement and told him that she thought all the tourists should patronize Sidney stores in view of the work the community was doing.

Civil defence officer, G. M. Owen, withdrew the participation of his group on Monday when it became evident that the local staff could now adequately handle the emergency here.

Help From Brentwood

In Sidney during the past week, there has been a universal desire to help travellers who were delayed by ferry problems. This desire spread over a much greater area than Sidney. From Butchart Gardens came Manager Ian Ross to offer what assistance he could give.

Mr. Ross told The Review on Tuesday that he was distressed at some unfortunate but well intended publicity which had greatly exaggerated the part he had played in aiding the weary travellers. "I'm anxious to help in every way but I have great admiration for Norman Wright and his fellow Sidney residents who provided such sterling leadership in tackling the unprecedented situation," he said.

The Royal Visitor

This picture of the recent royal visit was taken last week by Sidney Photographer H. Wilcox who caught the charm of Princess Margaret as she walks alongside Saanich member of the Commons, Hon. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., minister of national defence. Mrs. Pearkes is walking immediately behind the pair.

THE DAY IS DONE AND OVER

On Wednesday afternoon a horde of weary volunteers were congratulating themselves on the end of a major effort as the Black Ball ferries resumed services between Vancouver and Nanaimo. The park was empty and the hall was bare. The milling, colorful crowds had departed and an air of quiet reigned over the memorial park. The biggest community effort in the history of Sidney had reached a close.

Participants in the project were entertained at a community party on Tuesday evening when occupants of the last 40 cars to be re-directed into the park joined in the revelry.

The volunteers looked gratefully on the empty park, but there still lurked in the minds of many the sensation of anti-climax as a mental picture of milling crowds remained. The day was done and it was already evident to the sponsors that the rush was over whether or not the Black Ball ferries went back. The majority of tourists had left the island, mostly from Sidney, suggested a way.

A special meeting is to be held in the near future to arrange for continuation of this service to the public in the event of any future emergency.

Splendid Co-operation Is Hailed By Company's Agent

It was not so much the very impressive co-operation of the people of SANSCHA as the spirit which showed itself throughout the ferry problems. This was the grateful appreciation of the Sidney hospitality expressed by C. E. Blaney, local agent of Washington State Ferries.

Comparison Leaves City Behind

Sidney leads the way. With grateful tourists beaming at the reception they gained when awaiting the ferry at Sidney came many who made a harsh comparison between arrangements here and those in Victoria.

In Victoria, they commented, the driver had to remain in his car for the entire period of waiting for the ferry. No shelter, refreshments or entertainment was available and the ferry tie-up brought a grim picture in its wake.

Potential passengers on the Victoria-Port Angeles ferry were advised by many to drive out to Sidney where they could enjoy the delay. A large number acted on this advice.

ANOTHER INQUIRY ABOUT FERRY SERVICE

Ferries and ferry schedules are very much in the news these days. On Monday the mail brought a postal inquiry with regard to a line not strikebound. A gentleman from Seattle wrote: "Editor, Local Newspaper and Print Shop, Sidney, B.C., Canada: Would you be so kind and mail me as soon as possible the Gulf Island ferry schedule, particularly that of the Cy Peck from Swartz Bay." A copy of The Review, containing all Gulf Islands ferry schedules went forward promptly to the Seattle man.

Chairman of the sponsoring committee, Russ Watson has received confirmation of the establishment of an air cadet squadron in Sidney. The new unit will be known as Sidney Kinsmen Air Cadet Squadron No. 676 and the commanding officer is J. R. Hannan, of Sidney, a member of the staff of T.C.A. at Patricia Bay Airport and a former air force marine section officer. Adjutant is E. C. Caywell, who served with the R.A.F. during the Second World War as an air gunner. The squadron will be operated under the sponsorship of Sidney Kinsmen Club. Parades will be at Patricia Bay Airport in the armories. The R.C.A.F. has announced that 10 cadets will be permitted to attend summer camp this year, during the month of August. The unit has been in the stage of formation since before Christmas of last year and already boasts a membership, even before its official establishment, of about 40 boys.

ALL DISTRICT RALLIES TO AID OF STRANDED

—Biggest In History

Operation SANSCHA has brought Sidney into close focus across the North American continent. A community that represented simply the ferry point to thousands of stranded tourists has become synonymous with hospitality and courtesy following the biggest and most notable community projects to be seen in the history of Sidney and North Saanich. No other community on Vancouver Island or on the mainland has ever achieved more.

On Friday morning when it became evident that the normal routine of handling ferry traffic in Sidney was to be hopelessly inadequate, Norman Wright suggested that cars be directed to the memorial park and be held there until the ferry was ready to take them off the island. Within 24 hours a full-time refreshment, information and entertainment service had been established. A completely smooth and painless operation saw the travellers arrive in Sidney, directed, docketed, lined up, fed, accommodated and entertained.

SANSCHA hall came into use on a 24-hour basis. Ladies of various organizations were called and rallied to the aid of the stranded tourists. Organization after organization attended at the park to offer their help. Food was purchased and disposed of before further stocks could be found. Donations came in from many quarters but there was a steady flow of customers to eat the supplies.

The routine was well-established over the week-end. The main body of volunteers, who totalled throughout the period several hundreds, left the grounds after the line-up had been passed through to Beacon Ave., shortly after midnight. A small group remained to clear up for the night. Several volunteers would then remain throughout the night to assist with enquiries from tourists still arriving or within the park.

At about 5 a.m. the first shift would arrive at the hall to prepare breakfasts and generally get started for the day. They would be relieved about 6.30 by the first appearance of the women volunteers who served behind the counter.

By Saturday there was hardly an organization in Sidney and North Saanich that was not represented. Civil defence provided blankets and equipment with the promise of cots if they might be needed for emergency accommodation.

That was the beginning of Operation SANSCHA. By Sunday it was completely in motion. The traveller was stopped on Beacon Ave., and directed straight to the park. He was allotted a place to park his car and given a ticket indicating his priority for boarding the ferry. The volunteers staffing the car park told him the time of the ferry on which he would leave and sent him to the hall for further information. There he found a black board confirming ferry schedules and an information desk offering advice on accommodation and every other matter which might be questioned. The refreshment counter fed him and a bus schedule was arranged offering free transportation to Butchart Gardens to while away the time. TV and film shows were offered in the hall on Sunday to take the place of TV and dances which had been provided on Friday and Saturday. A public address system was installed to advise the transients of any change in plans and to call attention to activities planned.

The feature of the operation which attracted many of the patrons of the car park was the cheerful manner of the volunteer staff. The entire operation was carried out with a smile and no visitor received anything but the utmost courtesy.

In one community project Sidney had established itself as the most hospitable district on the island and possibly on the entire continent in the eyes of many travel-weary drivers.

DIRECTOR

N. T. WRIGHT

Spark behind the entire Operation SANSCHA which has gained wide acclaim for the district is Norman T. Wright, Sidney company director. Mr. Wright proved his organizing ability as the situation reached a sudden crisis on Friday morning. Harried by questions and problems during the morning, he directed every effort into its proper channels and brought into operation the hundreds of volunteers and organizations making their contributions to the general picture. On duty at the park on a non-24-hour basis, he never lost touch with the problem and never lost his temper with either his staff or the transients.

EDITORIAL

An Historic Contribution

Ferry tie-up which stretched to Nanaimo-Vancouver service of Black Ball Ferries on Friday, represented a harsh blow to Vancouver Island's economy. The aftermath of the strike brought a new commendation to Sidney. There is little doubt but that the name of Sidney will become synonymous with hospitality in homes throughout the North American continent and beyond.

The manner in which the district rallied to the aid of the stranded tourists, without a thought to personal gain or profit, ranks highly in the history of the community. For days there has been nothing but praise from tourists and transients who have enjoyed an almost unbelievable experience of hospitality while stranded here.

SANSCHA provided the parking ground on Beacon Ave. and promptly staffed it with volunteers to maintain order among the ferry passengers and to offer refreshments to thousands of passengers. The provision was lavish. In addition to snacks, there was entertainment, with an information bureau thrown in. Of an estimated 5,000 tourists only a handful expressed any but the highest commendation of a service offered on a purely voluntary basis and without expectation of any reward.

At the top of the list of responsible parties stands Norman Wright, flanked by C. G. Vollrath and Mrs. Betty Eckert. All three devoted unlimited time and trouble to the welfare of tourists passing through Sidney. Hundreds of others volunteered their time and goods for the project. Norman Wright abandoned his business and worked on a 24-hour basis to establish a routine here.

This experience has been advertising of the highest degree for Sidney. The people who sponsored Operation SANSCHA and the people who staffed it merit high praise, indeed, for their efforts. It is a brand of advertising that cannot be bought, it is the reward of a spontaneous effort on the part of the community.

When Sidney residents tour the mainland they may say with pride: "It was from Sidney."

A Welcome Relief To Volunteers

It is a welcome relief to the harassed volunteers when the line of traffic is despatched to the wharf. This picture of the line-up was taken on Friday before the handling of ferry traffic was streamlined.

by SANSCHA. It shows the line stretching far back from Mitchell and Anderson's to the Memorial Park.

TORIES LAY PLANS FOR GARDEN PARTY AT DEEP COVE HOME

At the recent meeting of the Saanich Conservative Association, Robert J. Patch was elected president.

Defence Minister To Open Big Fair Keep Off That Island!

Canada's Minister of Defence will officially open the 1958 Pacific National Exhibition on August 18. Hon. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., Saanich M.P., will also take the P.N.E. parade salute from the reviewing stand at the Vancouver Post Office on Hastings St. at 10 a.m. Actual opening ceremonies will be from the stage of the Outdoor Theatre at 3 p.m.

It will be the first time in the P.N.E.'s lifetime of 47 years that a defence minister will have opened the fair. But the roster of names of those who have done so is a roll-call of the Canadian great of the past half-century.

The first fair, in 1910, was officially opened by Sir Wilfred Laurier, prime minister of Canada. The year of the outbreak of the First World War His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, raised the official curtain.

Since then there have been premiers, cabinet ministers, mayors and governors-general. There have been men of science and men of industry whose names are linked for all time with the pioneer development of B.C. and Canada.

Other officers elected were Mrs. E. G. Woodward, Brentwood, and Frank Butler, Sidney, vice-presidents; Frank Mawdsley, secretary and Alan Calvert, J.P., treasurer. Executive members elected were Mrs. A. J. Ingram, J. C. Cox, Harold Vickers and Joan Moore.

Mr. Patch was elected the official delegate to the B.C. Association with Murray Hackett the alternate. The latter attended the quarterly meeting in Kamloops last week. Representing the association at the leadership convention in September will be Mr. Patch, Mr. Hackett, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butler, Mrs. E. G. Woodward, Mrs. W. M. Parker, Mrs. A. J. Ingram, A. Calvert, W. F. Mawdsley, R. Campton, P. Wright and John Moore.

At the monthly meeting to be held in the Lake Hill hall on Friday, July 25, final arrangements will be made for the garden party to be held at the G. R. Hackett home, Chalet Road and Land's End Road, the next day, Saturday, July 26. There will be the usual and some unusual attractions. Contributions for the various stalls of kitchen and garden produce and superfluities will be most welcome.

SAANICHTON COUPLE WED AT SHADY CREEK CEREMONY

In a recent ceremony at Shady Creek United church, Rev. A. M. Angus united in marriage Ellen McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. McDonald, Wishaw, Scotland, and Alexander Chisholm, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Chisholm, Saanichton. Given in marriage by her uncle,

R. S. Thomson, the bride was lovely in a waltz length gown of nylon tulle over white taffeta, with lace bodice and petal point sleeves. The neckline was trimmed opalescent sequins and seed pearls, as was the same trim on the headdress of her chapel length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink rosebuds and white baby daisies.

Mrs. Margaret Johnstone was matron of honor for her cousin, gowned in waltz length flocked aqua nylon over taffeta, with scalloped hem and neckline, and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow shasta daisies.

As junior bridesmaid, Linda Johnstone was dressed in dotted nylon over pale yellow taffeta, with matching taffeta cummerbund tied in a butterfly bow at the back. She carried a basket-shaped bouquet of white daisies, with matching floral headdress.

William Chisholm was best man for his brother, and ushers were Bruce Gardner and Ronald Chisholm.

PIPED TO PATIO

Jamie Troy piped the couple from the church to a reception held on the patio of "Woodwyn", the home of Mrs. W. C. Woodward, Brentwood.

Andrew Johnstone proposed the toast to the bride.

For a motor trip through Washington, the bride changed into a navy and white sheath dress, with linen jacket, white accessories, and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm are now residing in Saanichton.

James Island

Mrs. James Doran was a guest of Qualicum at the recent luncheon given for the old-timers to celebrate this centennial year. Mrs. Doran met many old friends whom she hadn't seen for around 40 years. Prior to her departure for Qualicum, Mrs. James Doran, Jr., and son, Jimmy, arrived for a visit of several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Ruffle are holidaying at Qualicum, Pender Island, Port Alberni and Vancouver. Mrs. Grace Ruffle of Saturna Island, mother of Mr. Ruffle, is spending some time on James Island.

Mrs. Ralph E. Waud of Seattle, with David and Danny, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McCreesh for a few weeks' holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tyre and family are visiting Kamloops and vicinity on their holiday.

The James Island Fishing Club, open to all C-I-L employees, has had a fair number of members with quite a few entries since July 1. With weekly prizes being offered and the Moore Club fishing trophy for the biggest salmon caught during the term, there are lots of fishermen trying their luck. A bingo was held at the Moore Club to raise funds for the prizes, and was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Penman and family are spending a few days in Ladysmith, prior to leaving on their holiday camping trip.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bond and son, Jimmy, have been on a couple of weeks' motor trip through the Fraser Canyon, Cariboo and Okanagan. They spent several days at Kalamalka Lake, Kamloops, Kelowna and Penticton, with brief fishing trips to Paul Lake and Pillar Lake. Before returning home, they had a successful trout fishing trip to Lower Campbell Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Davidson of Calgary, had a brief visit on James Island as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Brown and family from Penticton spent a short time with Mr. Brown's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Nash.

Miss Muriel Dabb of Ladysmith, niece of Mrs. J. S. Askey, was also a visitor for a week. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Askey drove her back to Ladysmith, on their way to visit Mrs. Askey's mother, Mrs. M. Dabb.

PLANT PEST

Poison ivy is one of our most dangerous pests which, on contact with the human skin, causes a painful burning rash. The plant should be exterminated whenever possible. It should be torn out by the roots, with gardening tools and the pieces of the plant dropped into cartons or paper bags and burned, if possible. The smoke should be avoided since particles of the poison may be carried in the air. After use, the garden tools should be cleaned with gasoline, kerosene or lye. Hands and ankles should be washed with strong household soap or detergent. Shoes which may have come in contact with the plant can be cleaned with gasoline to destroy the poison.

BROOMS
Scald the brooms in boiling soap suds once a week, and it will keep them tough and flexible, beneficial to both the brooms and the rugs.

BRENTWOOD

Rev. H. E. and Mrs. Marshall left last week for Eastern Canada on their summer holiday. They are spending two weeks at Edmonton, and then expect to spend several days at Luseland, Sask., where Mr. Marshall was minister for 23 years before coming to reside at Brentwood Bay. Although Mr. Marshall came to Brentwood on his retirement, he has often filled the pulpit at the United church, and Mrs. Marshall, who is a teacher of music, takes the place of the organist in her absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kockott have returned home from their honeymoon spent travelling through U.S.A., stopping at several places including Seattle, Bellingham and Everett, also a motor trip up-Island. The couple were married on July 5 at St. John's Anglican church, Victoria, and a reception was held at the Uplands Golf Club for 200 guests. The bride was Miss Lorraine Luney, of Welch Road, Royal Oak. They are now residing at 5300 Santa Clara Ave., Elk Lake.

A meeting of the United church Sunday school was held last Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. Buffam, Stelly's Cross Road. Mr. Buffam is the superintendent of the Sunday school. Plans were made for a congregational pot luck supper, to be held at the Centennial Park on Sunday afternoon, August 24. It was decided to continue with the showing of films on Sunday mornings through the month of August, as the children are enjoying them so much. After the meeting a surprise baby shower was held for Mrs. Philip Paul of Benvenuto Ave. A decorated basket of useful gifts was presented to Mrs. Paul by Miss M. Buffam and Miss J. Burdon. She also received a Kenwood crib blanket from the afternoon group of the W.A., with a card expressing their appreciation of her work as a teacher in the Sunday school. Mr. Paul is also a teacher.

Mrs. Thomas Little of Victoria, and her cousin, Miss Dora Little of Hamilton, Ontario, were guests of Mrs. M. Parsell and family, Benvenuto Ave., last week. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Little and Miss

Value Of Fire Department Radio Proven By Bush Fire

Value of the new radio facilities of the Central Saanich and Sidney Fire Departments was proved on Wednesday, July 16, when confusion arose over a bush fire near Alec Road, on the southwest slope of Mount Newton.

Sidney fire chief G. A. Gardner received a call shortly after noon from the control tower at Patricia Bay Airport, informing him that a T.C.A. pilot had spotted the fire. Having heard the Central Saanich siren sound a few moments before, Mr. Gardner presumed that that department had answered the call.

Checking by radio with the Central Saanich truck revealed that they were attending another blaze on Telegraph Road. Mr. Gardner immediately despatched a Sidney truck, which circled Mount Newton without spotting the fire. The truck then drove to John Dean Park, and from the top of the mountain, the crew was able to see the blaze, and by means of the radio direct the Central Saanich truck to it.

With the Central Saanich department attacking the fire from below, the Sidney crew ran hoses from the top of the mountain, and quickly extinguished it.

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH

THERE'S always a little nostalgia aroused as an era comes to an end and a new order takes over. Some of the earliest recollections of many residents are trips on the early C.P.R. vessels operating between Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver. The outstanding meals served on snow-white linen at only $1 each will long remain in memory. Gradually the force of modern economics made itself felt. Ships on the triangle run underwent a change and service was considerably streamlined. They were still large, commodious ships, however, which required crews of more than 100 to man them. The economic axe bit deeper—and today we are witnessing what may be the reluctant end of an era.

There are lots of regrets in many parts of the Pacific Coast, but the handwriting is today clearly on the wall. By a bold and imaginative stroke, Premier W. A. C. Bennett has put the government of British Columbia headfirst into the ferry business. The Premier could do nothing else. He and all his neighbors on Vancouver Island had watched for weeks while strikes slowly paralyzed the economy of the island. He did what any responsible government must have done—took immediate action to bring into being a permanent, government-operated ferry service which never again could be idled by strikes. We give the B.C. government full marks for its action. Conversely, at time of writing, the federal government is still dilly-dallying. Nothing constructive has been done and residents cannot be blamed for wondering if there is any appreciation in Ottawa of the economic tragedy stalking this important part of Canada.

We hope that Mr. Bennett will lose no time in getting his new ships built and operating. He may decide to take a "second look" at the suggested site of the western terminus of the service. Swartz Bay no doubt has many advantages. So has Sidney. The warning has already been sounded about commercial ribbon development around Swartz Bay. But, unfortunately, history has proven that ribbon development is just as certain as life and death. A costly new wharf would have to be constructed at Swartz Bay. The provincial service could have a choice of two in Sidney: (a) the existing federal government wharf; and (b) the new wharf to be erected for use of State of Washington Ferry ships a short distance south. The State of Washington people have always emphasized that they will be delighted to see their wharf used by other lines.

So go to it, Mr. Bennett. Put your terminus where you like, but get work started without delay. Sidney people have always shown a sincere desire to co-operate with their neighbors. The ferry strike has produced one of the most trying periods of time in Vancouver Island's long history. But out of the hottest fire comes the best china tea cup. We sincerely hope that we'll be able to write of the ferry problems before so very long: "All's well that ends well!"

BRING ON THE AUTOMATICS

AS each day passes, AT-Day approaches that much closer. What is AT-Day? Why automatic telephone day, of course. Just what is the date of the gala celebration is not known at present. But some day six or eight or nine months from now is probably a logical guess.

The Review is rather intrigued at the over-caution of the B.C. Telephone Co. in inviting the views of every subscriber before arriving at the only possible decision to embrace the new Keating and Sidney automatic exchanges in the existing Victoria exchange. This newspaper has received a number of telephone calls and many subscribers have spoken on the subject in private conversation. In every case—100 per cent—each has pressed for inclusion in the Victoria exchange. It is realized that the cost would be slightly higher, but the return will far outweigh the monetary disadvantage.

This newspaper does not think the telephone company has gone far enough. Instead of standing nervously on the brink of putting Keating and Sidney into the Victoria automatic district, the company should be installing automatics in the Ganges and Gulf Islands exchanges at the same time—and preparing to embrace them, too, into the Greater Victoria exchange. This step will be taken some day—and sooner the better.

WATERING RESTRICTIONS

SOME anxiety was aroused in the area of Sidney Waterworks District with the announcement last week that garden sprinkling restrictions have been established again this summer after a joyous absence of approximately 10 years. It was reassuring to learn from a responsible officer of the District that the cause was not a shortage of water, but rather an unparalleled dry season combined with inadequate facilities for distributing the water. In other words, there is no suggestion that the water table has fallen or that the underground river which furnishes the supply is drying up. It may mean, however, that as more and more householders are served by the District's distribution system, additional wells will probably be required to provide more water. This is a matter that we are certain will have the full attention of the trustees before another season rolls around.

Sometimes we may overlook the high quality of Sidney's water. Travellers from one coast of Canada to the other report that any community whose water is not of necessity chlorinated is indeed a rarity. Open a faucet in Toronto for a drink of water. The smell of chlorine is objectionable, to say the least. In Montreal the waters of the great St. Lawrence River are so polluted, that swimming is prohibited. Naturally, before it can be distributed for domestic purposes so much chlorine has to be added that it makes your hair practically stand on end.

Waters from the taps of Victoria, Vancouver and Calgary are no different. It's H2O plus lots of Cl. We have little to grumble about here from a domestic water standpoint.

Stan Watling was installed as president of Watling Rotary Club, along with secretary Lawrence Christian, and directors George Baird, Wallace Udy, and Rev. E. S. Fleming.

Hauling business which had been operated for 10 years by Len Bowcott was purchased by G. Jessup, Mary Susana Crofton, aged 80 years, passed away at her Salt Spring Island home.

Insurance salesman William James purchased the former Horth home on Birch Road, Deep Cove.

Mrs. J. J. Young, Mrs. K. Stanlake, and Mrs. R. H. Byers were co-hostesses at a tea in honor of Miss Barbara Beaumont, whose wedding to Henry E. Olson was to take place later in the month.

I.O.D.E. life membership badge and framed illuminated certificate were presented to Miss B. E. M. Beddis, at a ceremony at Ganges.

Mrs. J. Gardner and baby son, John, were visiting Mrs. Gardner's mother, at Alberni.

Sweet peas nine feet high were growing in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. M. Riedlman, corner of Queens Ave. and East Saanich Rd.

Miss June Bowerman was winner of a wool quilt at the annual garden party of St. Peter's Guild, Pender Island.

Shoal Harbor Marine Service was purchased by Murray Stockall and Charles McKay.

Stan Watling was installed as president of Sidney Rotary Club by retiring president Bert Bath.

Receiving special mention for athletic achievements in the North Saanich high school Ink Spot were Violet Palmer and David Lines.

Special citizenship prize was awarded to Mount Newton high school student Mildred French.

More than 100 guests were present when Mrs. Fred Crofton and family held a garden and tennis party at their home, Harbour House, Ganges.

Crew under L. R. Christian was digging a well on Sidney Island for the Department of Transport range station.

New Marshall organ was installed at St. Paul's United church.

Funeral services were held in Ganges United church for Elizabeth White Dewar, wife of Rev. James Dewar.

In a report to his constituents, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Penrkes, V.C., M.P., recommended the removal of the eight per cent sales tax on essential commodities.

20 YEARS AGO

About 1,200 soldiers were landed at Sidney by the destroyers Fraser and St. Laurent, and went into camp west on Fifth St. between Beacon Ave. and Oakland Ave.

Port of Sidney was becoming popular with American yachtmen, several boats having called at the wharf.

Plans were being made by congregation of St. Paul's United church to hold a picnic to welcome the new pastor, Rev. D. M. Perley.

An exhibition box lacrosse game between two Victoria teams was planned to entertain the soldiers visiting Sidney. Playing for one of the teams were J. G. Mitchell, Melvin Clanton and Bert Bowcott of Sidney.

Sum of $14,000 was voted to carry on the functions of the schools in the North Saanich Consolidated School District, when the annual meeting was held. A. Sainsbury and Mrs. George McLean were elected to the board of trustees. Apparently school meetings were better attended than they are today, for 287 votes were cast in the election.

Two Fulford Harbor school teachers, George E. Knight and Frederick Smith, disappeared while boating off Oak Bay, and were believed to have drowned.

Oil tank and barge were installed at Hodgson's Store at Bedwell Harbor.

30 YEARS AGO

Efforts of the War Memorial Park Society to raise funds for the development of the Beacon Ave. park failed. S. Roberts, H. A. McKillop, G. A. Cochran, A. Calvert, G. T. Mitchell, Mrs. J. Gilman and Mrs. H. Shade were elected to the board of trustees for the following year.

Deep Cove was promised electric light if residents would guarantee an annual income of $2,200 for five years to the B.C. Electric Co. Miss H. Hagan, Mrs. Lacoursiere,

Closing Of Navigable Waters By Private Firm Is Studied

By FOXGLOVE

Several residents have spoken to me with regard to a curious advertisement which appeared recently in a number of newspapers. The little item is reproduced here:

Stringing of power lines across Sansum Narrows between Salt Spring Island and Vancouver Island and adjacent to and 75 feet north of existing power line crossing, will begin Monday, July 7th, 1958 and be completed by Friday, July 18th, 1958. The Narrows will be closed to all marine traffic periodically. During this operation two tugs and a motor launch will be in attendance to warn marine traffic. Mariners and aircraft please use caution.

HUME & RUMBLE LIMITED

Now my friends didn't object particularly to the erection of the power line. But they expressed intense curiosity with regard to the fact that a private electrical firm, in this case Hume and Rumble, could perpetually close navigable waters without any quoted authority.

Normally, when navigable waters are closed to marine traffic, proper notice is given by the federal department of transport. Did the department know of Hume and Rumble's proposal? The public is left wondering. Two tugs and a motor launch were to be in attendance. Were these R.C.M.P. vessels? Or were they manned solely by earnest employees of Hume and Rumble?

What is to stop a Sidney shoe shop—just as reputable a firm as Hume and Rumble—from announcing that a display of shoes will be given in Sansum Narrows on a specific date and that during that time navigable waters will be closed by two tugs and a launch? Sounds silly, doesn't it? But it's just as logical.

and Miss B. Butler from South Saanich, and Mrs. Holmes, Miss R. Reid and Miss Mary Enos from Sidney, were the committee in charge of the annual Catholic picnic at Cole Bay. Ruth Holt and Stanley J. Wagg were married at Ganges, at a ceremony performed by Rev. J. P. Westman.

One of the most up-to-date confectionery and fruit stores in the district was opened at Keating by J. F. Whelly and his sister, Myrtle. Whelly's and Hanbury's bread were among the products sold.

For being the keeper of a house of prostitution in Sidney, Joseph David was sentenced to three months' hard labor. On a second charge of keeping liquor for sale, he was fined $300.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crofton were hosts at a dance given in honor of their daughter, Doreen, at Ganges. Car driven by Mr. Sparling was badly damaged when struck by a truck laden with millwood on School Crossroad.

More than $100 was raised for Girl Guides at a garden party held at the home of Mrs. Halseath, Shoreacres.

J. Black, who was overcome by gas fumes at the bottom of a 30-foot well being dug at the property of Mr. Bogges, Bradley Dyne, was rescued by his co-worker, W. C. Clarke. Artificial respiration revived him after two hours unconsciousness.

Variety Show

Caught by the community spirit which has prevailed in Sidney over the past several weeks, children of the Orchard area will present a variety show at the home of C. G. Vollrath, Orchard Ave., on Thursday, July 24, at 2 p.m.

Taking part in the show will be Linda and Sylvia Mills, Jill and Larry Cowan, and Victor and Wayne Vollrath. In addition to the program there will be a display of pets, and a candy stall.

Admission is five cents, with proceeds of the show to be presented to SANSCHIA.

If there is any explanation of the curious advertisement, it's quite likely that readers of The Review would like to know about it.

The Rose of England Recalled By Royal Visit

By DORIS LEEDHAM HOBBS

"The rose doth deserve the chiefest and most principlal place among all flowers whatsoever; being not only esteemed for her beaute vertues and her fragrant smell, but also because it is the honor and ornament of our English Septie." So wrote John Gerarde, writer of a famous "Herbal" in 1550—and here, in Vancouver Island we are enjoying the visit of our Princess Margaret Rose who is surely that honor and ornament personified.

I read, that in the British section at the huge Brussels Exhibition there is a panoramic trellis showing the place in English history of that historic badge—the rose. This lovely girl, with her rose petal complexion is a symbol of royalty which is an ideal at the centre of our great Commonwealth of Nations.

What a utilitarian and dull business life would be brought out that bit of glamor which is wrought into our lives by this slip of a girl in periwinkle blue, whose thousand-year-old royal lineage no ardent socialist can remove from her.

Ask the old soldiers at the Veterans' hospital if they would "do away with Royalty?" Many fought as "Soldiers of the Queen" in the South African War and cherish the print that thanks Queen Victoria sent them as her "Knights in Khaki". In later years "The Queen and I thank you" meant to many just that small accolade bestowed on the servant who had done his duty well—when "Service" was an honor, and it is an honor yet. The armed services—the postal service, the civil service—all services of the government of a country whose head is a queen or king with no power as a despotic ruler, no dictatorial power whatsoever, but only power in the hearts of his or her servants and subjects.

It is not sentimental; it is a true and fine sentiment, a very different thing, this affection we Canadians, Indians, Scots, Eskimos, want have you—feel for the throne. It is the sort of unexplainable thing which makes us prefer to stamp our letters with the Queen's head—and such a pretty one!—rather than with a mountain goat or other thing.

An Apology

By D. FRANCES SAVILLE

So many living creatures share our world, by night and day. An eagle soars on muscled wings above my head, to prey On prowling cat below. I am aware Of nesting rats, or mice, who come to share My sheltering roof. Each species must survive. Sadly I learn To spread small seeds that rodents eat. Return Next morning. Stand—rebuked—to find A tiny body; perfect, of its kind. No human skill could fashion so completely This stiffened, helpless, furry thing. So neatly The midget, hand-like claws are clutched, and pressed In hopelessness, before the white-front breast. Each must survive. But this was innocent Of malice. Only grew Indistinctly to live. Some humans do More harm to others than this tiny thing. I wish we knew So little evil. I—and you—and you.

PEANUTS

Small children may choke on peanuts, or poke them into nose or ears. If the child is fond of peanuts, he can be given peanut butter, which is safer, especially when he has a snack while at play. Another hazard is the habit of poking peanuts into ears or nose—unless the object can be removed easily, the child should have medical attention rather than be subjected to probing which may injure the ear.

So This Is Britain Today

WHEN REPORTER BERT GREEN GOES BACK

I arrived in England midway through the wettest June of the century. Continuous downpours and violent local thunderstorms persisted, and day after day throughout this most unseasonable month radio programs were interrupted while the announcer gave urgent gale warnings to shipping, and news of fresh weather disturbances approaching in series from the Atlantic.

Having just crossed the Atlantic, I was not greatly surprised. Ever the slow-thinking optimist, I had reserved an outside deck chair on boarding the Empress of England at Montreal. Not for me the tiered rows of invalid chairs on the glass enclosed promenade deck. Was it not flaming June?

Not in the Atlantic, where the skipper, for the first time in the year, steered the most northerly course. Twenty four icebergs were in plain view on the morning of the first day east of the Labrador coast, and the winds blew cold at gale force as the ship steamed at speed through the heavy swell. The most hardy seadogs strode the open decks in heavy sweaters and fierce defiance of the elements, but no one thought of occupying a deck chair.

And so it continued, and only for an hour or so on a single afternoon was it possible to wind-bathe without the comfort of an all-enveloping wool rug.

MIXING EASY

An ocean voyage is a grand homogenizer, at any rate at the tourist level, and very soon all sorts of people were fraternising, comparing experiences and reminiscing. While conditions on deck remained congenial, there was no lack of sheltered entertainment on this fine new addition to the Canadian Pacific fleet. Whatever one's personal inclinations, there was always something to do: a fine library, chess and writing room for the studios; sing-songs, race games and bingo games for the gregarious, and dancing and swimming in the all-enclosed pool for the athletic.

First-run movies were shown morning, afternoon and evening in the elegant theatre, and a small but talented orchestra gave frequent concerts in the lounge and played well into the night for dancing.

One advantage of the ocean voyage, as against "get seated and you're over the Pole" transportation, is the gradual transition to other ways and manners. The coinage for instance. Dollars are painfully extracted at the ship's bar and shops, and very soon the pockets are weighed down with a heterogeneous collection of half-crowns, florins, quarters, sixpences, dimes and coppers of prodigious size.

PROBLEMS

The various denominations may be American, British, Canadian, or Irish if you are unlucky, and monetary values are number one problem to the uninitiated.

It is the same socially. One would think that the large groups of young Americans and Canadians on this sailing, for the most part travelling overseas for the first time, would be slow to adapt themselves to the routine habits of an essentially British ship.

After the first uncertain day, however, they were flocking to the lounges at 4 p.m. for tea, thin bread and butter and iced cakes, as eagerly as the old folk. They were even observed to be taking tea in preference to coffee after dinner. I hope that this will not be taken as a reflection on the quality of the coffee served for I can assure the reader that it was excellent.

CLOSER THAN YOU THINK

On a Sunday evening, in weather that had become calm and serene, the northern Irish coast was sighted to starboard, and it was still daylight when we sailed into the narrow North Channel separating Ireland from Scotland's Mull of Kintyre. It was amazing to many of us that the two countries are so close together at this point. Every detail of either coast was most plainly visible without the use of glasses, a thrill both to the native born and to those making their first journey overseas.

By noon the following day immigration and customs formalities were completed, and the passengers were dispersed their various ways. My first impression is that England has changed very little. It is true that I have not yet had the opportunity of travelling about the country.

For the moment I am viewing the English scene through rose-tinted glasses, and it could hardly be otherwise, for the weather now is perfect. The warm, sunny days are tempered by light breezes, and everywhere the trees and fields are a lush verdant green. In this uncertain climate we must enjoy the favorable conditions while we may, for those dreaded Atlantic depressions are still competing with the anticyclone over the Azores which would ensure a long spell of summer warmth, if fairly established over our islands.

SAME TEMPO

It is common to suppose that work and recreation proceed at an easier pace in Britain, and that business affairs generally are conducted at considerable less pressure than is common across the Atlantic. Sid Ceasar, ace American comedian, now on contract to the B.B.C. television network, was evidently thinking along these lines when he compared Britain to "a tropical island situated somewhere in the Arctic Circle".

Coming from Vancouver to a comparable region in the southwest of England, I do not notice any difference in the tempo of living. My wife and I, however, have rediscovered the pleasure of a walk after supper. There are so many paths to take, and so much to see and hear. The other evening we were rewarded with the sight and song of a nightingale, an experience quite unexpected so close to the city.

It will be rightly concluded that, as yet, we have not had the use of a car. This evening we hope to take delivery of a rather ancient, but respectable looking, automobile, and no doubt the feet will thankfully revert to the accustomed function of depressing clutch, gas, and brake pedals. We shall travel farther afield, but I doubt if we shall see as much.

Aftermath

"The captains and the kings depart."

A quotation from Rudyard Kipling's "Recessional", but reminiscent of the grounds at Saturna Beach, now that the barbecue is over. As the movies say, I was there... watching the dismantling of the stalls, the preparations of putting away various stall-coverings that had enhanced particular areas on July 1. So, the barbecue festivities and the nervous excitement always attendant on large undertakings were on the ebb tide with the picture in our minds of relaxing perhaps, but with thoughts and ideas for the coming year.

A resurrection takes place then and we are all filled with an ebullience of spirit that causes us to "pick up the gauntlet and torch", and go forward to battle with the happy and much needed crowds that we are grateful to receive.

"The 1958 barbecue is dead. Long live the barbecue!"—Ruby Villars-Kay.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM NOTES

WEEKLY REPORT OF NORTH SAANICH STATION PASTURE ROTATION

Confining cows to pasture areas where they will consume the grass in one day has resulted in more efficient use of pasture on the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. This system of pasture management has increased the feed value per acre by 26 per cent compared with free range grazing. One advantage is that adjustment can be made in grazing area with a set number of livestock, to allow for variations in rate of grass growth throughout the season.

The management plan followed at Ottawa confines the cows by an electric fence to an area where they consume the grass in one day. Each day the electric fence is moved forward, between the permanent fences of a pasture strip, to provide a day's allowance of fresh grass. The distance the fence is moved is gauged by the previous day's grazing. To reduce the concentration of droppings stock is allowed to range back over the grazed area until the end of each week.

Each week a second electric fence is moved up to the rear of the animals, limiting them to the day's grazing plus the previous day's grazed area. When the aftermath on the initially grazed area has recovered the cows are moved back to begin the process over again. Any unconsumed, advanced grass is cut for silage or hay. The surplus cured grass provides supplement during periods of poor pasture growth.

PYTHIUM ROT

During the past 10 years it has been fairly common knowledge amongst potato growers that losses from Pythium rot of potato sets in the soil can be prevented, and yet farmers and home gardeners continue to have losses from this disease from time to time. Losses from Pythium have occurred in many small gardens this year and in the occasional commercial planting with the result that information

MODERN ETIQUETTE

— By ROBERTA LEE —

Q. Is it obligatory for a bride to entertain those friends who have given her wedding gifts?

A. While this is not exactly obligatory, most brides are eager to entertain their friends in their new home. So far as "obligatory" is concerned, she has fulfilled that by writing her sincere "thank you" notes for the gifts.

Q. I have a figured lamp I wish to place in front of a picture window. Should it face toward the living room or the outside?

A. The decoration should face the living room.

Q. How far under the table should the chairs be pushed, when placing them for a dinner?

A. The front edge of the chair should be on a perpendicular line with the edge of the table.

TCA ANNOUNCES SEATING PLAN ON DC-8 JETLINER

When Trans-Canada Air Lines puts its six DC-8 Jetliners in service in 1960, each aircraft will accommodate 127 passengers—28 First Class and 99 Economy. Each cabin will have its own double galley, washrooms (with flushing toilets for the first time in any TCA airplane), cloakrooms, intercommunications and public address systems and music in flight. The forward part of the aircraft will contain a lounge accommodating eight passengers. There will be four doors, two for passenger loading and two for aircraft servicing. The cargo compartment will hold five tons. The huge Jetliners will go into service on TCA's transcontinental and trans-Atlantic routes, cutting flying time almost in half.

BEE KEEPERS' SALT SPRING

It was literally a hive of bees and industry at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Roddis of Harbourside last week, when members of the Vancouver Island division of the B.C. Honey Producers' Association held their annual field day and picnic in the grounds surrounding the residence. Among the 70 guests present were Dr. and Mrs. J. Pearce, Dr. N. W. Bell, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Cole, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Petersen of Duncan.

The hive of A. J. Hepburn was opened for demonstration. A talk was delivered by G. V. Wilkinson, on removing honey from the hives, on extracting and straining methods were explained. Honey for exhibition at the P.N.E. and the Saanichon Fair will be sent from the division, marking the centenary of bee-keeping in B.C.

It is interesting to note that the first colony of bees arrived in Fort Victoria from San Francisco in the year 1858. A vote of thanks was expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Roddis for their hospitality.

BIGGEST FISH TOO EARLY FOR SOLARIUM DERBY PRIZE

The Solarium Derby broke all records for numbers of anglers, but Brentwood's record fish of the year has nothing to do with the derby. W. Robertson of the Old West Road, fishing off the Boulder Saturday evening, a few hours before the stampede started, landed a 30-pound spring, with a Strip Teaser, 150 feet of line, and a pound-and-a-half of weight. Thus the most successful fisherman of the year didn't win a thing, and the prize for Sunday's fierce competition went for the only button fish of the Sunday production, Bert Brayshaw's 22-pound six-ouncer.

Consistent fisherman Merle Rimmer was another angler who had his luck too early to be in the running for the big prizes, with a 20-pound four-ouncer Saturday night. On the big day, angler Rimmer had nothing big enough for competition, and didn't bother to answer the final gun.

1,000 FISH LANDED

The best of Sunday's fishing took place early, with most of the fish landed before a falling tide slowed things down. A couple of hundred fish, including a sprinkling of coho, weighed in at more than five pounds, and it was estimated that the record number of anglers landed about 1,000 altogether. Limit catches were numerous, making up in some measure for lack of size.

One Saanich Peninsula resident, Dave Scott of Sidney, was a merchandise winner, with a 14.06 spring, for a traveller camera kit.

Another Sidney man, W. G. Scott, won an oil painting kit, in the hidden weights competition.

Strike by strike coverage of the events of the day was provided by Old Fisherman Lee Hallberg, who went from Creed's with portable broadcasting equipment, talking to anglers boat by boat.

After all the shouting was over, fishing went back to its normal pace, and a number of good catches were recorded in the evening. Two local anglers, Johnny Flynn of Brentwood Garage, and John Lien of Norman Lane, had a big catch of cod, the largest of which topped 35 pounds.

Coho were in evidence, showing up well from Mill Bay Market to Bamerton. According to latest reports, they are taking Tom Macs and Strips, with weight around four ounces.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

GLASS STOPPERS

If the glass stopper sticks fast, dip the tip of a feather in oil and rub around the stopper close to the mouth of the bottle. Place bottle near heat. It will cause the oil to run down between the stopper and the bottle. When warm, strike the bottle gently on both sides. The stopper should loosen, and if it doesn't, repeat the process.

USING YEAST

When yeast is used, put into a little warm water and add a teaspoon of sugar and let develop a while in the water before adding to the dough mixture. This will cause the dough to rise more quickly and easily, and give the bread a better texture.

NEW RAMP

Small boat launching facilities at The Chalet, Deep Cove, have been improved with the installation of a concrete ramp more than 60 feet in length.

PHONE SURVEY STARTS—For Two Weeks

A two-man team from the B.C. Telephone Company began a thorough survey of the Sidney and Keating exchange areas on Monday, July 7, in order to determine their telephone requirements for the next three, five, 10 and 20 years. The two men, D. C. Schubert and J. A. Murray, will spend about two weeks in the area.

The information required to assess the future development of an area must cover every phase of its activities and interests. Company policy emphasizes the "strictly confidential" nature of the information obtained through interviews with civic, business and other officials.

TWO MONTHS
Sifting and analyzing the data takes about two months, after which the report is studied by telephone engineers and used as a basis for future expansion plans.

The conversion of Sidney and Keating to automatic operation, scheduled for early next year, will be accompanied by introduction of the "two-letter five-number" system. Sidney and Keating subscribers will then be given new numbers beginning with GRANITE-5 and GRANITE-4, respectively.

Bustles And Crinolines At St. Mary's Guild Garden Fete

By B.C.H.

It was like being transported back into the ages of the past at Rose-nath Farm on Thursday, July 10, when the members of St. Mary's Guild arrived at the garden fete dressed in old-fashioned costumes. Members of the guild and visitors came in bustles and crinolines, curls and lace, ribbons, buttons and bows; pokes, bonnets, wide hats and ostrich feathers and feather boas; tight waists and high collars and long skirts, old shawls and lace caps.

For this was the centennial garden fete for St. Mary's church, and the centennial motif was everywhere. Pennants and flags and bunting decorated the gardens, and music from the very modern recording system played old tunes and new. It was a gay and happy, if somewhat warm scene.

Lt.-Col. Desmond Crofton opened the fete, after being introduced by Ven. Archdeacon Holmes. Col. Crofton spoke of the many times in the past when as a boy and young man, he had lived with his brother, Dermot, as to who should drive the various clergymen down to the services in the little church at Fulford, and said he had a very warm spot in his heart for St. Mary's church.

VIVID RECOLLECTION

He recalled very vividly how proudly he drove the late Cecil Abbott down in one of the first model T Fords in the year 1911. He paid tribute to the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Shaw, who had done so much to help the church, and to the present members of the family, Misses Gladys and Cree, and William Shaw, for they part they do to carry on the good work.

Col. Crofton needed no introduction to the residents of Fulford, who have a great affection for him, and as it happened to be his birthday, Archdeacon Holmes called for congratulations, which were given in hearty applause, and the singing of the traditional birthday song, led by Doug Dane.

After the opening of the fete, the children paraded in their centennial costumes for the prize giving, and the special prize of $5, kindly donated by Mr. and Mrs. Alton, was won by Christopher French as an old prospector.

Jeffrey Lacy stole the show dressed as a chimney sweep, and other outstanding costumes were worn by Elizabeth Dane, Margaret Rathwell and Jeffrey French. For the little ones, Jeffrey Lacy came first, and Gillian French, second.

The parade of costumed ladies then followed, and it was a sight worth seeing as they swept by in regal splendor, amid the applause of a record crowd of visitors.

The old-fashioned ladies then took their place at the stalls, and performed some new-fashioned selling, and did a brisk business. There was rummage from home cooking to everything, ice cream and a big centennial decorated cake. Besides the centennial bunting, the stalls were decorated with huge wagon wheels.

And in case the ladies were not recognized clad in the beautiful old lace and ribbons and silks, here are some of the names of those helping on the stalls: Mrs. F. L. Jackson, who received

Study Plants And Birds On Pender Island

T. R. Ashlee returns to Ganges, Monday, accompanied by Major E. Bruce Irving, after spending a fortnight at Johnny's Field, South Pender Island, as guests of Geoffrey Jennens.

Major Irving's chief interest is birds, while Mr. Ashlee's is plants. During this time Mr. Ashlee has made a collection to determine the floristic characteristics of the South Pender in relation to the other islands, Vancouver Island, and the mainland. This survey particularly notes the flora of undisturbed areas compared with the flora of disturbed areas due to logging and sheep grazing.

Mr. Ashlee works in conjunction with J. W. Eastham, retired provincial plant ecologist, now honorary curator of the Herbarium, U.B.C., and an outstanding authority on British Columbia flora.

Careless campers and forest fires are both out of place in Canada's woodlands.

OLD AGE PENSIONERS DISPLAY HANDICRAFTS AT GANGES

Old Age Pensioners' Association of Salt Spring Island held a display of hand work at the Legion hall, Ganges, on July 17. The hobby show was open to the public and a silver collection, taken at the door, realized $7.50 for the group.

Mrs. P. Gunterman, president of the local organization, showed the largest collection of crafts, ranging from stuffed animals, moss and sawdust pictures, crochet work, sponge foam flowers, small paper plates attractively painted, and using various seeds in flower designs, painted bottles, to wax flowers.

E. J. Strathern, Cusheon Lake, had a display of copper jewelry which was not only attractive but had fascinating stories behind the various designs. Earrings and cufflinks featured baked enamel designs. Mr. Strathern was an arthritic victim some years ago and became very discouraged until the Canadian Arthritic Clinic changed his whole outlook as he learned to use his hands in creative fashion. He became so enthusiastic that he attended a U.B.C. Extension course on design. Now his designs are all copies of authentic native work.

DANCE ON GLASS

One polished copper bracelet had funny little creatures dancing on grass, and this was taken from an old Mexican design. The story behind it tells of how a Mexican lost in the desert dreamed he saw little creatures dancing on green grass. The original bracelet depicting the legend was found in a Mexican grave 150 years ago.

Other exhibitors included Mrs. R. Thacker, who showed knitting. Salt Spring Island ceramics were represented by an attractive piece by Mrs. J. Mitchell, while Miss June Mitchell showed a papier mache tray. Richard Kelly displayed an ashtray, plywood coffee table and Viking ship in a painted shadow box frame.

Mrs. Mary Martin donated a tea cloth she had embroidered for a contest which will be drawn at the next meeting on August 21. Tea was served by Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Zetterberg and Miss Gordon-White. Master Derek Urquhart assisted during the afternoon.

The group held their meeting also, with Mrs. Thacker elected as the new secretary-treasurer. The name of the association has been changed from Cusheon Lake to Salt Spring Island Branch No. 32. The president, Mrs. P. Gunterman, was in the chair, and Archdeacon G. H. Holmes was asked to say a word of prayer.

50th Wedding Anniversary Of Pender Couple

Golden wedding anniversary was celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Davidson, Pender Island, at their Clam Bay home on Monday, July 14, when a number of long-time residents called throughout the afternoon and evening to offer congratulations. They were the recipients of numerous gifts and long distance telephone calls from friends and relatives.

The two daughters of the couple, Miss Jean, and Helen, Mrs. G. Rogers, with daughters Linda and Georgia, were on hand from Vancouver for the occasion, and a family luncheon was enjoyed at the Wayside Coffee Shop. A son, Bruce, a sergeant in the R.C.M.P., passed away six years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson were married 50 years ago in Vancouver. Their first year of marriage was spent on Pender, where Mr. Davidson had lived with his parents since 1892, and where Mrs. Davidson had taught school. They then moved to Vancouver, where they resided until 1941, when they retired to the old home site.

Best wishes of the community are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Davidson.

The next group emerged from the hot haze where it had blended into a background of islands. Cutting through the blue water came the destroyers, recently at anchor in Bedwell.

Making a wide sweep around Turn Point on Stuart Island, the six one-funnel frigates surged into focus, Stettler leading, New Glasgow bringing up the rear.

Just when the show seemed to be over, four chunky minesweepers charged around Turn Point, in a desperate effort to keep up with the rest of the fleet.

NEW STAMP MARKS CANADA'S CONTRIBUTION TO OIL INDUSTRY

Hon. William Hamilton, postmaster general, has announced details of a new design five-cent postage stamp to be issued on September 10.

The new stamp focuses attention on the important role played by Canadians in the development of petroleum. A Canadian geologist, Abraham Gesner of Nova Scotia laid the foundation for the new industry when he discovered kerosene in 1846 and established its use for illuminating purposes. Another Canadian, James M. Williams, dug the first commercially successful oil well at Oil Springs, Ontario, in 1857.

Canadian enterprise in the refining of petroleum became the basis for the modern world-wide petroleum industry.

The release of the new stamp coincides with the World Power Conference which will convene in Montreal from September 7 to 11. At this conference Canada will be host to some 1,700 delegates representing 52 countries.

The World Power Conference will consider how the various sources of energy from heat and power may be adapted for the maximum benefit of mankind. The new "Oil Development" stamp was designed by A. L. Pollock of Toronto who has previously designed some United Nations as well as Canadian postage stamps. The new stamp of labor in Canada.

With 125,000 employees, the C.N.R. is the largest private employer of labor in Canada.

Saanich Teachers' Salaries Among Highest In Province

Few school districts in B.C. pay higher salaries than Saanich, according to figures released last week by B.C. School Trustees magazine.

In the elementary basic classification, Fort Nelson ranks highest in the province, with salaries ranging from $3,300 to $5,300 per year. The Saanich scale is from $3,200 to $5,000. Lowest is Salmon Arm, $2,700 to $4,400. Only nine of the province's 81 school districts equal or surpass the Saanich scale.

West Vancouver is highest in the secondary basic classification, paying from $4,300 to $7,300. Salmon Arm is again lowest with a scale of $3,600 to $5,910. The Saanich teachers will receive from $4,200 to $6,600, with those in only five districts doing equal or better.

Honor of paying the top rate is shared by West Vancouver and Peace River, where secondary advanced teachers may earn as high as $7,500, without taking increments into consideration. Top for Saanich is $7,260, seventh highest in the province.

TUBELESS TIRES at the FIRESTONE STORE

Bass, Bathing And Beans

AT SOUTH PENDER DERBY

By CONSTANCE SWARTZ

On Wednesday, July 16, South Pender Community Club, in its annual picnic opened its arms to the Canadian Legion Fish Derby, a gesture that may have been prompted by fishy thinking and a hope that the arms would be filled with salmon.

While fishermen contended with tides, sun glare, balky engines and fouled tackle, observed the rule of "No High Explosives" and had fun, Marie Craddock with her A.D.C. Michael Gillespie of Seattle, and Bea Freeman, fought three trestles and four oilstoves to a standstill. Sawhorses must be on even ground; tables in the shade of the maple.

"You can't have your stove next to my ice cream. . . . No spoons? They can get nice, clean sticks off the beach. . . . My dear! You're not going to put a good sheet on that table and get tea stains on it. . . . Make it strong enough. We do little enough for North Pender. Don't let's give them measly coffee—it's so beastly!"

LONGFELLOW

Being 6'6" makes it hard for Charlie Van Der Ley to hide. So it's "Where's Charlie?" To prime stoves, lift a clothes boiler; tote that barge; lift that pail; open the milk with a rusty nail.

Bubble, bubble, toil and trouble; but it's worth it. As the fishermen come ashore, cauldrons of witches' brew are ready. Witch Doctor Freeman, with his best Bedwellside manner, weighs the catch. Tea and coffee flow. Herb Spalding, the Good Humor Man, goes the rounds, and poptops and dixie cups drip.

The derby field comprised of 21 boats, 30 entries and produced seven salmon. Winners were Duncan McDonald, Hope Bay, a 13-lb. spring; Mrs. Myrtle MacDonald, West Vancouver, Miss Alice Auchterlonie's guest, with two cohoes, one of 5 lbs. 2 oz.; Mrs. Hank (Barbara) Auchterlonie, two cohoes, one of 4 lbs. 9 oz.; and Percy Corbett, a 4 lbs. 3 oz. coho.

Susan Robertson, Oakville, Ont., got a 3-lb. 9-oz. coho. All is gristle to Mrs. Myrtle Wilson's mill, and her's weighed almost 7 oz. Henri Renaud lost both grise and tackle. "I didn't get skunked—but almost!" whispered Lou Budd, South Pender's prize fisherman. "I got a bass!"

DOOR PRIZE

Elspeth Flood, from Salmo, drew for the door prize, which went to Walter White of Armdale.

After the basket lunch the fun and games continued. Elmer Bowerman won the predicted log race in a field of 10, overestimating his time by 35 seconds. All observed the rule "Leave your watch ashore with a friend—if you have one." Some entrants turned away just short of the finish line to watch the 10 navy ships, heading for Vancouver.

SWIMMERS

Yelma Schell and Margaret Amies splashed home first and second in the under 12; Susan Knapp, Oswego, Ore., and Fay Brackett ditto for under 12. For boys 8 to 11, Clayton Smith churned in ahead of Ricky Buck; and Robert Murray and Jimmy Buck the same for under 12. In another race, Jimmy placed second to Stephen Flood of Salmo. The mainland took it away from the islanders when Len Henshaw and Alan Mernett raced home in the adults' swimming, mixed.

Jousting in skiffs brought victory to Tjalling Van Der Ley and Alan Mernett.

In the bean guessing, Eagle-Eye Elmer got even closer than in the predicted log race, figuring seven beans more than the correct 1801.

MANY VISITORS

Others welcomed by the community club were: from North Pender, Fred Conroy, Mr. and Mrs. Walter

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

When British Columbia Was Born

CHAPTER V

THE GOLD RUSH

Husbands left their wives and young ones.

Beardless boys ran away from school. Soldiers deserted their posts and crewmen fled their ships.

It was the spring of '58 and the great gold rush was on. With varying intensities it lasted for 20 years.

Some made fortunes—and lost them in most cases soon after. Men suffered and swore, sweated and froze, fought Indians and privation. The gold fever became a madness.

The real winners weren't the high-boated, hard-talking, grizzled sourdoughs, but the generations which followed. For the miners punched out the trails, opened the country and led to the establishment of the government of British Columbia.

The rewards of the miners were small compared to the riches they made possible for their followers.

A STRIKE

Gold had been found in California in 1848. Three years later small deposits were found in the Queen Charlottes. In 1855 a "strike" was made on the Columbia River just north of the U.S. border. Wandering "forty-niners", drifting north from California heard of new finds on the Thompson and Fraser in 1856.

The reports fomented dreams in the minds of men across the continent and in Europe. The Horatio Alger theory of bootblacks becoming millionaires through initiative wasn't taken seriously in those days. A man was born rich or he was born poor. Most were born poor with little opportunity to better themselves. The station they were born in was the station in which usually, they died.

But there was the great get-rich-quick opportunity. One needed neither Greek nor Latin to swing a pick. Blue-blood or peasant—the gold bars yielded their riches as freely or as stubbornly, to the one as to the other.

In 1853, due to Hudson's Bay Company reluctant policies of settlement—(settlers boded ill for the fur trade), it was estimated there were but 450 settlers west of the Rockies.

GOLD-HUNGRY

Five years later gold-hungry hordes, soon to number 25,000, swarmed into the new land. In April, 450 gold seekers boarded a single vessel at San Francisco and headed north. In May another 1,262 arrived. In June 7,149 and in July 6,278.

They came by land and by sea. The gold dust trail started often as far away as Hawaii, Central and South America, or in Europe. Those who came by sea landed at Esquimalt, Victoria or Puget Sound ports. Overnight Victoria became a bustling city of tents, shacks and saloons. Merchants emptied their stores and filled their strong boxes.

Men heading into Yale and Hope paid $50 for a barrel of flour, small fortunes for mining or cooking utensils. Once supplied, the would-be miners turned to the problem of crossing to the mouth of the Fraser, river of gold.

It is recorded in the Victoria Gazette of that year:

"The Fraser River Flotilla—our bay presented a fine sight on the occasion of the departure of about 30 skiffs, canoes and sailboats for Fraser River. No less than 500 miners left our town yesterday in this manner.

"As the boats darted to and fro, previous to starting, and finally took their leave, moving off gracefully toward the mouth of the bay, the enthusiasm of the spectators vented itself in loud cheers. . . ."

By May 1 the rush had reached up the Fraser as far as Lytton. Most arrived in June and high water held them from the bars. Some returned with hopes shattered. There was a clash with Indians which drove many others back to Yale. Bodies of several who stayed floated down the Fraser later.

PEACE TREATY

The Indian disputes resulted in formation of a band of 150 miners who marched from Yale and won a peace treaty. It also resulted in a visit by Vancouver Island governor James Douglas, who as the nearest officer of the Crown, appointed constables and magistrates and arranged for survey and disposal of the goldfields.

PATENT LEATHER

Olive oil, glycerine or sweet oil rubbed over the surface of patent leather occasionally will prevent it from cracking.

Bar mining claims were 25 feet square. From some of these postage-stamp plots, fortunes were panned. Hill's Bar, south of Yale was one of the earliest placer mining sites, the longest worked and best paying.

Official returns that year showed gold worth $520,353 was taken from B.C. river beds. Unofficial estimates doubled the figure.

VISITORS ALL HAD GOOD WORD FOR HOSPITALITY

During the past week Sidney has been in a state of turmoil. While the residents of the community were tied up with the problems of handling unprecedented numbers of cars and passengers, many ferry passengers enjoyed the chance of assessing the community.

A visitors' book at SANSCHA hall and discussions with tourists passing through brought out many comments on the treatment offered travellers in Sidney. Here are some of the comments heard or read.

William Hughes, Council Bluffs, Iowa, compared the community effort here with the effort in his own home town when the district was flooded recently.

"I hope the ferry company realizes how much goodwill has been built up by your community," he said, "It has been a wonderful experience to come here."

WELCOME SURPRISE

It was a welcome surprise to walk into this reception, Willard Walden, of Oakland, California, told The Review. "It is an outstanding job and the whole community should be commended," he said.

Mrs. K. A. Stokes, of R.C.A.F. Station, North Bay, reviewed the situation as a mother. She left a note for the volunteer staff, commending them on the washroom facilities which were maintained. "Thank you for clean washrooms fit for small children," she said.

The Geigers, of Washington Grove, Md., were terse but appreciative. "You are a valiant group," they wrote.

Minister Says "Thank You" To Sidney District For Its Aid

Hon. Earle C. Westwood, minister of recreation and conservation, has written to Dr. C. H. Hemmings, chairman of the Sidney village council, expressing the thanks of himself and his department for the way in which the citizens of the district rose to meet the recent ferry emergency.

Text of Mr. Westwood's letter follows:

"I feel that a special word of commendation is due the good people of Sidney in view of the splendid manner in which they rose to the occasion of an unfortunate circumstance and volunteered their assistance to hundreds of motorists delayed by the recent ferry emergency.

"It has come to my notice that village officials and many organizations and individuals gave liberally of their time and energy over the past week-end to help alleviate the boredom and discomfort of the stranded travellers.

"This can only redound to the great credit of British Columbia as a whole and the Village of Sidney in particular, and undoubtedly will leave our American visitors with a lasting impression of the friendliness of our people.

"Personally and on behalf of the Department of Recreation and Conservation, I wish to thank you and your citizens for their admirable spirit."

INSTITUTE MEETING

South Saanich Women's Institute will hold a card party in the Institute hall on Wednesday, July 30, at 8 p.m. The group will play "500", and there will be refreshments and prizes. The institute, which usually disbands for the summer, has decided to hold one monthly card party this season, and will resume the usual twice-monthly meetings in the fall. Mrs. P. Spek is the president.

Shakespeare said: "A little fire is quickly trodden out, which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench."

Cute Youngster Takes Award

Russell, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Les Blow, East Saanich Road, was the winning contestant in the baby picture competition staged several weeks ago by H. Wilcox, Sidney photographer. He is shown above in the setting which gained him the award.

MORE HIGHLIGHTS FROM SIDNEY

large number of sandwiches, which were donated to SANSCHA on Sunday. Kept frozen, they represented a further reserve for the harassed volunteers behind the coffee counter.

Original plans to terminate the serving of refreshments at 9 p.m. on Friday were cancelled when tourists were swarming into the hall all night long. The coffee and light refreshments were served on a 24-hour basis.

TV was provided upstairs for visitors. Set in use was donated for the occasion by Chuck Tyler, of Sidney Kinsmen Club.

Volunteers during Sunday night caught it two ways. No sooner had the ferry traffic been sent off to the Beacon Ave. line-up during the night than a string of cars pulled in from the ferry to enjoy the hospitality of SANSCHA until the morning when they could resume their journey.

Churchgoers were not forgotten. Special transportation was offered to tourists who sought to attend the Anglican church of St. Andrew's in Sidney on Sunday morning.

Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department maintained a patrol throughout the emergency, spraying the field with water to keep down the dust. A cautious eye was also held on the fire hazard and crews were alerted for any sign of danger.

A man leaned from the window of a Cadillac bearing a Virginia licence plate. "I've travelled all over North America," he told Norman Wright, "and I've never seen hospitality like this. Here's $5 for your building fund."

A service truck operated by Beacon Motors travelled up and down the lines of cars in the park, offering on-the-spot repair facilities to the waiting motorists.

Ice cream could not be served at the hall because of the lack of refrigeration. Supplies of dry ice, which comes from the mainland, were cut off by the strike.

One young couple was heard complaining at the park. Accepting the "hospitality" of a Sidney resident, who offered beds for the night, they were stunned when they received a bill for $11 the next morning.

A number of passengers halted on the highway and instructed to enter the car park echoed the same protest. "But we want to cross the water!"

Few cars leaving the car park did so without a cheery wave and word of gratitude to the volunteers controlling the flow of traffic.

Centennial silver dollars were sold at cost at the information counter in the hall, with nearly 100 per day being picked up by the tourists.

Many familiar faces were to be found in an unfamiliar setting. There were Cliff Vollrath as a bus dispatcher; two versions of Norman Wright, before and after his falsely reputed collapse; Ken Thorne, tearing about the park and undertaking every task with a broad grin; "Rick" Henriksen controlling traffic beneath a double coat of sunburn; Ian Ross competently handling parking problems instead of passing them over to his staff; Lydia Sterne in the grocery business; Art Gardner laying the dust; Fred Musclove, Dave Evans, Herb Drew, Fred Gilbert, Howard Roland and William Shanks, Commissioner T. A. Alera, Chuck Tyler and Duncan Gorton understudying Rick Henriksen; Pat Lamont calling out from Central Saanich to pitch in; May Wakefield looking for doughnuts; Art Grossi explaining that he could undertake no public announcement owing to his having been up for 16 hours; Betty Eckert handing out free coffee to the workers; Mrs. Ian Ross offering the loan of her staff; Harold Fox showing up at 5 a.m. to get things started for the day; Robin Anderson sweeping a floor; H. O. Munger explaining that his "barker" was still rested up; Charlie Burrows and Cliff Ganderton following their normal routines armed with the equipment to clear pipes at the hall; Mrs. Norman Wright shrugging her shoulders about business during the ferry week; Connie Kingerlee serving as a telephone operator with no switchboard; Russ Watson finding more information than he could disseminate; Dave Winter too weary to start his custom model Ford; Eleanor Flint serving coffee and doughnuts when there was no new garage in sight; Austin Reeves clearing hay on the field; Wilkie Gardner on the receiving end as he seeks to catch a ferry; Lilian Hunt, Mrs. Deveson and Florence Gardner gazing in awe at an inoperative campstove; John Kennaird, Tom Flint and others prepared for a rush for blankets; Tony Buckle maintaining a filing system; Bill Stanton in ecstasies at unexpected income for SANSCHA; Evelyn Gwynne running a collection service; Bud Nunn explaining to Frank Nunn the routine of directing cars; customs and immigration staffs working well into the night and still cheerful; Ernie Aldus behind a counter without a wicket; Con Cornish counting money again while Maxine specializes in soft drinks; H. F. Wearmouth lining up cars; Ben Andrews looking for more cars; Marcel Chappuis leaving the wharf without a glance back at the line-up; Roger Post boasting of a night's sleep; Vivian Cowan in the hot dog business; Gwynne Owen operating a trucking business; John Kennaird whistling; Mrs. E. W. Hammond rushing; Mrs. Madill selling silver dollars; Phyllis Levar organizing her team; Irene Tyler making coffee; Iris Smelser pitching in; Fran Mills serving innumerable breakfasts.

And hosts of other volunteers quietly going about the task of catering to bewildered tourists, efficiently and anonymously.

Dentist Returns After Holiday In Interior

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Butler have returned to their Sidney home after a short holiday at Princeton, B.C., where they formerly resided.

"Princeton has gone ahead in many ways but the payroll from Copper Mountain, where 900 men were employed and which is now closed, is sorely missed," said the dentist to The Review.

Chris Butler, son of Dr. and Mrs. Butler, who was severely injured recently in a motor accident, is making favorable progress in Rest Haven hospital. His hospital treatment will continue for several weeks.

SANSCHA Is Appreciative

The following statement has been made by Norman Wright, chairman of the ways and means committee of SANSCHA and the sponsor of the drive to take care of stranded tourists during the period of ferry strike.

"On behalf of SANSCHA, we wish to express our appreciation to all those who responded so readily to our need for help during the past several days. We hope that each one of them shares our satisfaction in having been of service to our community and to the many thousands of visitors, who, time and time again, expressed their thanks for our efforts.

"We are more than pleased that the support given by the community, which culminated in the opening of SANSCHA hall this year, enabled us to perform a service which, without the hall, would have been impossible.

"Ways and Means Committee,

"SANSCHA,

"N. T. WRIGHT, Chairman."

Keep Off Islands!

Boat owners have been warned by the Forestry Branch that the forest closure now in effect applies to all the islands adjacent to Vancouver Island. No one is allowed to land on the islands for camping or any other reason.

Only exception is Sidney Island spit, where park facilities have been provided.

HE FOUND HIS ANNUAL CAN OF JAM HERE

Canadian raspberry jam is at a premium. During the recent ferry tie-up, as hundreds of cars each day passed through Sidney, raspberry jam came in for a boost. A gentleman from Iowa was in search of a large can of raspberry jam.

Asked why he sought such a commodity he explained that this is his second trip to Canada in two years. Last year he fell in love with a can of this jam and he was determined to take one back with him.

In Iowa, he explained, raspberry jam comes in diminutive and expensive glass jars only.
